

Advertisement for Research Assistant for the American Political Science Review

The American Political Science Review (APSR) editorial team is looking for a student assistant for 40 hours per month until 31-May-2020 to start as soon as possible. We will consider Master students and third year Bachelor students.

You will be involved in the peer-review process of the APSR team.

Main tasks include, but are not limited to:

- ◁ completing technical checks of submitted manuscripts to the APSR,
- ◁ reproducing quantitative analyses of forthcoming articles,
- ◁ assisting in data collection and coding projects.

You will always have work, will learn about the academic publishing process, and will have a first look at cutting-edge research from the various fields of political science research.

It is necessary to have a very strong command of English (Native speaker will get additional tasks). It is beneficial to have some working knowledge of R and/or Stata.

Please send your application (letter of motivation, and CV) to the Managing Editor, Alyssa Taylor, at apsr@mail.uni-mannheim.de. The application due date is rolling until we find a suitable candidate. If you have any questions or concerns before submitting an application, please do not hesitate to reach out.