Overall satisfaction

What did you especially like about the course?

- Flexibility, professor, and intention.
- Getting feedback on our research from PhD student coming from different research areas
- I like that we had the opportunity to present twice.
- I liked to be able to present my current progress with my proposal and to receive valuable feedback. It was very motivating and interesting to also hear what others are working on.
- It has been very helpful and motivating.
- Open structure, good organisation, valuable feedback from Thomas (and the reviewers)
- good structure and feedback
- interactivity

Do you have any recommendations how to improve the course? If so, which ones?

- I suggest to improve the course in two ways.
First, allocate 45-60 minutes for presentation and discussion for each referee. Second, every student could review every proposal, in such a small group, so that we get more feedback.
- It would be helpful if the professor gave us written feedback after each workshop.
- Maybe more time for the presentations. It's one thing to present a single study in 20 minutes, but PhD projects are usually a little more complex.
