

Topics for Theses – winter semester 2024/25

Daria Ford

- Memory for truth and falsity

Please note that the supervision will be in English. The thesis can be written in either English or German.

Martin Brandt

- Is there a relevation effect for preference judgements?
- Thurstone scaling of preference judgments with incomplete pair comparisons
- Binding in visual short-term memory: Reliability of individual measurements of capacity and binding
- Binding in visual short-term memory: Is binding in visual short-term memory a predictor for associative recognition?
- Retrieval-induced forgetting in visual short-term memory
- Object-based attention: Under what circumstances do object advantages or disadvantages arise?

Alica Mertens

- Talking green is not acting green: Can implicit methods for assessing environmental attitudes predict actual environmental behavior?

Désirée Schönung

- Metamemory for sources: How accurately can individuals predict their source memory?

Beatrice Kuhlmann, Nikoletta Symeonidou, and Carolin Streitberger have no available slots in winter semester 2024/25.